Another new addition to Brigham Young University student government would be a supreme court. At first this body, composed of judges appointed by the studentbody president, will only interpret the constitution. However, in the future they will judge the constitutionality of laws passed by the legislative body.

IT WAS DEBATED whether Honor Council, Inter Organization Council and Student Problems Bureau should be included in the constitution. These suggestions were referred back to the committee drawing up the document.

Other areas covered by the new constitution are classes and class officers, elections and legislative procedure. Olsen pointed out that other minor constitutions of campus organizations or bodies will be considered unconstitutional if they disagree with this major document and will be changed to agree with it.

Ratification of the new constitution will be accomplished by a concurring vote of a majority of voters at a balloting of the studentbody. According to Olsen, it will take effect immediately upon such ratification.

'Fair Lady' Crowned At Belle Ball

SHARON BENSON, Pamona, Calif., was named "The Y's Fair Lady" Friday evening at the Belle of the Y Ball.

Marie Ostergaard, Duarte, Calif., and Janelle Brimhall, Provo, were attendants.

Miss Benson is a junior, majoring in elementary education. She is a member of the A'Cappella choir and is a song leader at Brigham Young University sports events

MISS BRIMHALL is in Sponsor Corps and sings in the ROTC chorus. She is a sophomore, majoring in home economics and management.

Miss Ostergaard is an opera workshop member, and is majoring in music application. She is also a sophomore.

The royalty appeared on the Brigham Young University television show "Discovery", Sunday on KTVT.

THE QUEEN received a gift from the Intercollegiate Knights and the Y Caleares. She also was given gifts from several downtown merchants.

The crowning of the queen at the Ball Friday climaxed a week of talent, beauty, dancing, cake baking, and popularity contests. The three winners received the highest accumulative points in

Tuesday Universe Final Issue For Winter Term

Tuesday's edition of the Daily Universe will be the final paper of the quarter, according to Ralph Barney, editor.

Deadline for copy intended for the final issue is 11 a.m. Monday morning.

Final Daily Universe of spring quarter will be distributed March 19 (Registration Day), according to Editor-elect Mark Murphy.

"Copy deadline for this edition has been set at 11 a.m. March 18," he said. Photographs for the first spring quarter edition must be taken prior to 8 a.m. March 18.

Game Travel Not Advised By BYU Administration

University administrators have officially frowned on students traveling to Corvallis, Ore., and Kansas City, Mo., for the NCAA basketball play-offs.

Dean of Students Wesley P. Lloyd said Friday that "in recognition of traffic hazards, expense and other practical considerations, the university administration regards unofficial student travel from Provo to the games inadvisable."

Brigham Young University's basketball team will enter the play-offs next week at Corvallis as Skyline Conference Champions of 1957.

BUT, LET'S LOOK AHEAD

MANY THOUGHTS cross an editor's mind as he participates in the selection of his successor and as he goes through the process of breaking the new man in on a job that has been his for more than a year.

Even though the editor can recall many instances during the past year when he looked forward to the day when someone else would take the job, he spends the last week dreading the day he must finally relinquish his hold on the super attentions of another individual.

THE STUDENT newsman—while reluctantly leaving his cluttered desk emptying the coffee can and preparing to vacate his small cubbyhole in the corner—acutely feels a loss of power and prestige that has already resulted from the announcement of an editorial changeover.

THE HOST of criticisms and complaints can be pushed to the background as thoughts go back to the satisfaction of small compliments received and minor triumphs of the past year and the tremendous feeling of accomplishment coming from guiding the publication of a paper for the use and benefit of one school year—the first such accomplishment in the university's history.

While these thoughts, however, comes a feeling of humility with the realization that our personal contribution isn't of paramount importance in this activity which counts for continued success—and even for existence—on the basic teamwork on the part of scores of students.

THIS TEAMWORK is evidenced in everything the 150-plus issues published since February 1952.

It is more than a matter of teamwork, it is a sense of responsibility and loyalty to both the university and the Daily Universe which has prompted the volunteer staff to spend hours each week seeing that reasonably complete coverage of events of campus importance is achieved.

ALSO AN integral part of the Daily Universe—although unheard and tragically unsung—are the men of the BYU Press who are concerned with the actual physical production of the paper each day.

These are the men who grumble loudly and wildly when editorial staffers are hours late in meeting press deadlines—but who are ever willing to go that extra mile in providing services which often make the distinction between a good newspaper and a great one.

THESE ARE the men who, although producing a tremendous volume of other printed matter, give the Daily Universe enough priority that it is often able to produce extra editions that tell of the end to a prison riot before any other newspaper in Utah; the men who arise early to print a paper that contains a story about a vital basketball game the night before.

Looking back on these sacrifices, the outgoing editor can only sigh, shake his head and repeat the old adage about no one being indispensible.

WHILE HE WISHES for a great fuss—with all the accompanying weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth—on his departure he knows that the change is necessary and that a better newspaper will be the result.

Mid-East Polcy Okay Goodwill Hilight Wee

by James Lee

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Soldiers of Israel moved out of the Gaza Strip and the Aqaba Gulf area last week and soldiers of the United Nations moved in.

This was the heartening payoff of long toil by peace-seeking diplomats attempting to end the peril-laden tensions between Israel and Egypt which have threatened to make the Middle East a possible starting point for a third world war.

ISRAEL'S withdrawal under assumptions that the UN would prevent new conflict was one of two top developments in the Middle East picture.

The other was congressional approval of the Eisenhower Doctrine warning the Soviet Union that the U S is prepared to intervene with armed force if necessary to thwart Communist aggression in the area.

The Senate exactly two months after President Eisenhower requested broad military and economic authority to deal with the Middle East crisis, resoundingly endorsed the doctrine. The House, which had approved its own version of the "fight-if-we-must" plan in January, quickly concurred in Senate amendments.

AT HIS NEWS conference, he expressed great gratification at the strong bi-partisan support accorded his historic policy declaration.

On the domestic side, the President disclosed that he has ordered an all-out drive to cut government spending because of rising prices and the danger of inflation. This disclosure made it certain that his $71,900,000,000 budget will be a target slashed by Congress.

Meanwhile, two notable developments were demonstrating on opposite sides of the world how massive withdrawal a reward for leaving weak in the Israeli test is the "umbrella" of U.S. foreign policy.

VICE PRESIDENT Richard M. Nixon was in Africa: Secretary of State John Foster Dulles hard work toward solution of the Middle East crisis, took to for Australia.

Era Staffer Speaks In Night Class, Explains Writing

Doyle Green, managing editor of the Improvement Era magazine, will be guest speaker for the March 13 "Writing for Purpose and Pleasure" class on the Brigham Young University campus.

This class is the last in the series which began eight weeks ago. It is presented by the BYU English department and the school's Extension Services.

Mr. Green's talk concerns writing for church publications. It is being held from 7:30 p.m. until 9 p.m. in 211 McKay Building. Since he is coming from Salt Lake City there will be a slight fee charged, Extension Service officials said.

The class is part of a non-credit series featuring specialists from BYU and the Improvement Era staff. Each speaker lectures, then reads or has read a short composition contributed by a class member, and then analyzes it or leads a class discussion concerning the story.

Spring Is Coming . . .

Baseball Squad Begins Practice Readying For Pre Season Play

by Howard Hill

THE WEATHER may not be warm enough yet, but the BYU baseball team has started Spring practice.

Before the Cougars take their annual one week tour to Southern California, they have about four weeks of practice ahead of them.

New BYU coach Jay VanNoy will have some big holes to fill in the V line-up, especially as far as hitters is concerned.

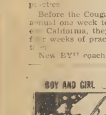
DAVE LEWIS, PHIL OYLER, and Gary LeCouris, the big sticks in the hitting department for the Cats last season, will not be returning this year. Lewis and Oyler graduated and LaComb is playing professional baseball.

As far as the infield is concerned, VanNoy may have a problem or two. Returning from last year's infield are shortstop Tom Steinke and second baseman Paul Haynie, both excellent glove men. The first and third base positions are open. Jerry Warnick, first baseman on the BYU frosh squad last year, might get the starting call at first. Loren Foster, who has returned from a church mission, may be switched from catcher to first base.

ONLY LETTERMAN returning to the Cougar outfield will be Paul Kitchen. An outstanding prospect for outfield duty is Leon Moyes, up from the Frosh.

VanNoy will be set with catchers as Brent Pratley and Dale Lewis are returning from last year's team.

All of last season's pitchers will be returning with the exception of Jack Cravens, who graduated. John Blair and Owen Shower saw plenty of action last year, and Benny Madsen and Glen Hatch both have a year's experience behind them. Jack Cravens, highly touted pitcher from the Frosh nine, will join the Spring work-outs as soon as the BYU baseballers return from the NCAA tourney.



Benson, Steinke— All-American Honorable Mention

Three Skyline Eight Conference basketeers won honorable mention in a national news service All-American selection.

Johnny Benson and Tom Steinke of the strong Young University, and Milt Kane, Utah University, represent the mountain conference.

Benson's rebounding ability and a consistent scoring record earned a spot on the All-American selection. The 6-4 senior forward has averaged 20 points a game just behind Milt Kane's League-leading 21.

Steinke, a little All-American choice, is second in conference scoring with a 20.7 average.

Kane finished strong to edge Steinke out in the scoring race. The 6-5 Utah forward was the Redskin sparkplug.

That's Rich

by Rich Hall

The time has come for us to put the final wraps on our efforts for as this year's sport pages go.

With the start of next quarter the new Daily Universe staff, and hence the new sports editor, will hold sway with the paper.

We feel that we have had an exceptionally fine year to cover the BYU sports scene; possibly the best in recent years.

It all started last fall with a markedly improved football team under the able guidance of a new head man, Hal Kopp. They came basketball. No one should have to be told how successful Coach Stan Watts and his ball club were this year. There is a lasting trophy that tells that message better than we can.

The wrestling squad has performed well under Coach Alan Davis, especially considering that there wasn't a senior on the team.

And Bill Hafen's intramural program has been just about top this year.

Both freshman coaches, Max Tolbert for football and Bill Bunker for basketball, came up with squads that show that the sports picture next year will even be better than the one just past.

Many students are not aware of the caliber of men we have on this campus directing the athletic endeavors of the school. After having been privileged to work with these men for several quarters, we are convinced that no school in the nation can boast a better athletic staff than BYU.

Dean Milton F. Hartvigsen, Director of Athletics Eddie Kimball, Sports Publicity Director Dave Schulteis, and the entire coaching staff have cooperated with us in every way possible. these people we would like to give our heartfelt thanks. Without their assistance it would have been a very hard job indeed to put out a daily sports page of any consequence.

BYU is rapidly attaining national prominence in sports, and a very large part of the credit for this rise must go to these people who are directing our athletic program.

Will Love Triumph Over Communism? Olympic Athletes Have High Hopes

PRAGUE, (AS) — America's world and Olympic hammer-throwing champion Harold Connolly has announced his engagement to pretty Olga Fikotova, Communist Czechoslovakian Olympic discus champion.

The couple met at the Olympics in Melbourne last November and Connolly said he came to Prague, ostensibly on a "demonstration" tour, to see Miss Fikotova and to arrange for the marriage.

The 25-year-old Boston College graduate told newsmen, "Our hope is to get married as soon as possible and then live in my home town, Boston, Mass."

Connolly's visa expires next Thursday but he said that "we are confident about the understanding of the Czechoslovak authorities."
